GOSSIP OF WALL STREET.

One Crowded Hour.

Each Stock Exchange session recently as seemed to furnish one brief and Corn followed the course of the wheat which has saved the day from being ablower. It was reported that receipts were light, though it is expected that the movement will show a property of the movement to the movement of light, though it is expected that receipts were concerned. This brief period of animation has indicated more often than not the ment will show a material increase shortly. The crop situation continues favorable. After advancing about 54c, in the forenoon the oats market reacted with the forenoon the oats market reacted with other grains to a level 14c, below the previous closing. Rains in Indiana and Illinois caused selling and considerably modified builtish sentiment.

The Price Current said that the Southwest has suffered locally by drought, while has suffered locally by drought, while The Price Current said that the Southwest has suffered locally by drought, while the northern section of North Dakota has had excessive rainfall. Soil conditions throughout the surplus producing States are hearly perfect and with favorable weather the next ten days the effect of the late season will be overcome. The late trading planting will not be generally heavy for wheat, corn or oats. A moderate movement is indicated throughout lowa and Wisconsin.

Current flour orders, according to the Northwestern Miller, barely equal haif over when the general dulness of the day's Chesapeake and Ohlo stock was strong According to the general theor in the stock. The directors' meeting will be held to-day to take action on the dividend and nobody looked for any other explanation for the buyins. Just preceding the devasting floods in the middle West toward the latter part of March Chesapeake and Ohlo sold around 72. On the the stockholders to understand that there was no intention of reducing the rate a the present meeting. There has in fact been no reason to believe that anything but the regular dividend was expected in the Street, so that apparently the selling was to some extent for the account of stockholders who realized that in the very best case the margin of safety over divi-dend requirements this year was likely

Lack of London Interest.

If speculators had been bothering their heads about the stock market at all some disappointment might have been expressed over the failure of business to develop ount of London. on the account of London. The London settlement began yesterday and the new account there began at noon, London time. Notwithstanding this the range of prices sent over here at the opening of our market was scarcely changed from our close on Tuesday, what small advances there were hardly being equal to the fort-night's interest carried by the new quota-tions. The cables reported that the settlement disclosed only a small speculative account in American shares. The curious feature about London's unwillingness to purchase our stocks is that the English financial press has been for months and still is constantly asserting that it is the general opinion there that American stocks are cheap at present prices and must inevitably find favor with the public in coming months. Nobody has any diffi-culty in understanding why Wall Street doesn't buy stocks. The state of financial sentiment, in the average commission

Important Statistics.

People in Wall Street who have been wondering over what appeared to them to be the absurdly cheerful reports of con-ditions from the West and South may ditions from the West and South may find some enlightenment in the Government's report of the country's agricultural exports for April The statement shows that these exports amounted to $75,695,348, begaking all records for the month and bringing the total for the year 1913 up to $15,613,551 as compared with $566,116,600 during the same period in 1912, which in its turn was far ahead of any other year in our history.
